Sinkhole repairs to cost $4.9M

A surprise. Contractor inside sewer, hours before collapse, saw no signs of imminent failure, according to infrastructure boss

 ALEX BOUTILIER

Repairing the damage caused by a collapsed storm sewer pipe on Highway 174 is expected to cost almost $5 million.

Ottawa's manager of infrastructure services, Wayne Newell, told councillors Wednesday the repairs will cost almost three times as much as relining the pipe prior to the collapse.

"The key is tracking the costs," Newell told reporters, adding the city had authority to spend the money under emergency provisions.

"While the cost is highly important for taxpayers, the most important issue right now is to ensure we get the road open as quickly as possible," said Mayor Jim Watson.

The collapsed pipe was slated for imminent repairs when it collapsed on Sept. 4. In fact, according to Newell, a contractor for the city had been inside the pipe earlier in the day.

Open to traffic

One eastbound lane on Highway 174 and one transit-only lane will open from 3 p.m. to 8 p.m. daily as repairs continue.

Newell said the contractor did not see anything that would indicate a "service failure" — in this case, a complete collapse.

While repairs continue near the Jeanne D'Arc off ramp, city staff are investigating why the pipe collapsed, creating a sinkhole that swallowed Juan Pedro Unger's car later that day.

City manager Kent Kirkpatrick said he will be commissioning an independent investigation into the matter. That report, which will include a high-level overview of similar infrastructure in Ottawa, is expected in about three months.

Repairs are expected to continue throughout the weekend, with all eastbound lanes scheduled to re-open for Monday.

"We really need to see how we progress over the next couple of days to see whether it's going to be Sunday morning, Monday morning or Saturday morning," Newell said.

"But even with that projection ... there's a number of things in the construction business that can cause delays."

Council cuts citizen-led committees

City hall. Mayor Jim Watson portrays move as a "renewal" for committee structure

 ALEX BOUTILIER
alex.boutilier@metronews.ca

Ottawa city council voted to trim citizen-led advisory committees from 15 to five Wednesday, despite complaints the move will give the city less access to specialized advice

"My concern is that when we go to an approach with our advisory committees that is either 50/50 councillors, general public experts, sometimes even more top-heavy ... we won't have left a lot of seats for people who are going to bring us that outside, technical experience," said Capital Ward Coun. David Chernushenko.

Chernushenko said he was particularly concerned about replacing expert advice on the built heritage advisory committee, which will now include four politicians and three citizens. "It's quite a particular skill," he said.

Ex-Mountie. Girl's injuries point to sexual abuse, trial hears

Doctors who examined a 10-year-old girl who says she was raped by former Mountie Kevin Gregson testified Wednesday they saw injuries that would have suggested recent, sexual abuse, even if the girl had never said anything.

Dr. Sarah Reid specializes in cases of suspected child abuse at the Children's Hospital of Eastern Ontario (CHEO). In her testimony, she said she observed "upsetting" injuries, and "blunt, penetrating trauma."

She said she saw cuts on the posterior and interior of the girl's genitals and fresh blood.

"In my mind, they were suspicious of sexual abuse," Reid said when she was cross-examined by defence counsel Craig Fleming.

Dr. Anna Karwowska, another doctor at CHEO who was involved in the examination, called the injuries "severe."

Her findings suggested the girl's injuries were recent, likely within "hours to days."

She said the injuries alone would suggest sexual abuse.

Fleming argued the injuries could mean an object could have been inserted by the girl or someone else. Karwowska said it was possible.

The Crown is not expected to call any more witnesses. Defence counsel will let the court know Thursday if Gregson wishes to testify. JOE LOFARO/METRO

Two wildlife groups working to help draft a new wildlife policy for the city suddenly quit the working group drawing up the document Wednesday.

"It seems the community organizations were simply used as window dressing and that staff had never any intention of implementing real changes," Liz White, a spokesperson for the Ontario Wildlife Coalition (OWC), said of the group's decision to quit the wildlife strategy working group.

Along with the OWC the Ottawa-Carleton Wildlife Centre also quit the group, citing embarrassment over continuing policies of shooting moose, trapping and killing beavers and coyotes, and gassing groundhogs. City council passed a motion in 2010 to re-

His biggest worry, he said, was for Iranian students in Canada. "They cannot prove that they're studying here. After 10 months of embassy closure in the U.K., Iranian students have problems with their approval to study there."

EQAO. Ottawa students' test scores outperform province: Report

When it comes to math and reading skills, elementary and Grade 9 students in Ottawa are performing above provincial averages, according to a report on 2011-12 test results.

In August, a separate report showed Ontario students lagging in math as only 20 percent of students, on a provincewide basis, improved from Grade 3 to meet the standard in Grade 6, down from 28 per cent in 2011.

Those numbers have been on the decline provincially for the last five years, but both Ottawa's public and Catholic school boards saw their numbers go up in the 2011-12 Education Quality and Accountability Office report.

Elementary schools. Anti-strike law sparks 'McGuinty Mondays'

Vote result

82-15

The Putting Students First Act was passed in the Ontario legislature by a vote of 82-15. The act freezes teachers' wages, ends banked sick days, and stops strikes and lockouts for at least two years.

The union is urging elementary school teachers to make a list of all the extracurricular activities they participate in and the meetings they normally attend and cut-back if they can.

"Essentially it's a volunteer community service," Giuliani said. "We're saying to actually think about it ... ask yourself: What do I want to do this year?"

JESSICA BEDDAOUI/FOR METRO

Ottawa elementary school teachers are being told to "take a break" on Mondays, said Peter Giuliani, president of the Ottawa-Carleton Elementary Teachers' Federation.

"Many teachers go in an hour and half early and stay an hour and a half late," Giuliani added. "We're telling them not to come in so early ... for many, many teachers it's going to be a shortened work day."

The Elementary Teachers Federation of Ontario is calling their protest day "McGuinty Mondays" after Premier Dalton McGuinty who imposed the Putting Students First Act, a controversial new contract on thousands of teachers, on Tuesday.

Giuliani also said that the protest will extend beyond McGuinty Mondays.

When Ottawa police Const. Karl Keenan decided to climb Island Peak for charity, he made it a priority to run the idea by his four-month-old son, Michael.

"I asked him for his permission and he just smiled at me," Keenan said with a laugh.

On Oct. 7, Keenan and 11 former Canadian Forces members will head to eastern Nepal and attempt to climb Island Peak, a 20,305-foot-high mountain in the Himalayas near Mount Everest.

His goal is to create awareness about the daily struggles of wounded or ill Canadian soldiers and to raise money for them and their families.

Keenan, 36, joined the military police in 2005 and was eventually deployed to Afghanistan.

"I know myself and a lot of the guys on my small team, we always thought, 'OK what if we get hurt? What are you going to do after the military?'" Keenan said.

After four and a half years as a military officer, Keenan returned home and joined the Ottawa police.

"I feel like I got really lucky. I went to Afghanistan and I came out relatively unharmed," Keenan said.

He knows other soldiers aren't so lucky.

Keenan wants to raise $5,000, which will be donated to the True Patriot Love Foundation for Support of Military Families.

I carry my gear into the patrol shack to see who else was foolhardy enough to show up this early. The old guys are getting their gear on. The young guys are slow moving and sleepy eyed, but are getting ready too. This year's recruits are fully dressed and bouncing around impatiently, waiting for the day to start. They remind me of myself a few years ago. The bottom line is, my friends are here, and I'm going to spend this day skiing with them. Maybe that's why I do it.

Twenty minutes before the hill opens to the public, we make our way past the line up of so called "die-hard" skiers waiting for the lifts to open, and load up, four by four to do our opening check. I've got my assignment for the morning; my team lead has me digging our toboggans out from under 20cm of fresh snow, and she's got me opening my favorite gladed run. I'm keeping the skiing public safe by cutting fresh lines through untracked snow, with the hill to myself. Maybe that's why I do it.

Nine thirty rolls around, and I meet up with a few other patrollers for a hot chocolate, and a greasy breakfast. We catch up on the week, and consume some tasty calories to keep warm up. Maybe that's why I do it.

Back on the hill, the radio crackles: one of my colleagues is treating a skier with a broken leg. I'm the closest, so I grab the toboggan and head for the scene. Within minutes, we have our patient warm and secure, and en route to hospital, bagged and tagged as we say. Despite the broken bone, our patient left in good comfort and good spirits. Maybe that's why I do it.

A few more tasks, a few more incidents... a downhill race to provide first-aid services for, a run to close due to hazardous conditions, a lost child to reunite with a parent, tracking down some kids skiing out of bounds. The usual, really, and then it's time to close the hill. I've got my closing assignment: turn over out toboggans in case we get any more snow, and sweep a mellow cruiser run to make sure no skier gets left behind. I'm alone at the top of the hill, the lift has stopped, the crowds are gone, and everything is quiet. One more run. Maybe that's why I do it.

I arrive back at the clinic to take my ski gear off. We're getting out of your yellow-and-blues and into our civvies, and the patrol leader is giving us a quick debrief of the day's events. We've all been through some tough work today, and we've all had some good fun, but we've done it all together, as a team, and as friends. We check into the main lodge for a little après ski. Maybe that's why I do it.

The next day, my hands feel the sting of the cold as I take my skis off the roof rack in an empty parking lot on a cold February morning. I mutter to myself, under my quite visible breath, "Why do I do this?"

U.S. sends marines to Libya after ambassador, staff killed by mob

Tripoli. Storming of consulate on 9-11 anniversary linked to anti-Muslim video, while U.S. investigates whether this was a terrorist attack

The U.S. dispatched an elite group of marines to Tripoli on Wednesday following a mob attack that killed the U.S. ambassador to Libya and three other Americans. U.S. officials are investigating whether the violence was a backlash to an anti-Islamic video with ties to Coptic Christians, or a plot to coincide with the anniversary of the 9-11 attacks.

Tuesday's stunning attack on the American Consulate in Benghazi poses a daunting task for U.S. and Libyan investigators: searching for the culprits in a city rife with heavy weapons, multiple militias, armed Islamist groups and little police control.

The one-story villa that serves as the consulate was a burned-out wreck after the crowd armed with machine-guns and rocket-propelled grenades rampaged through it. Slogans of "God is great" and "Muhammad is God's Prophet" were scrawled across its scorched walls. Libyan civilians strolled freely in charred rooms with furniture and papers strewn everywhere.

U.S. President Barack Obama vowed in a Rose Garden address that the U.S. would "work with the Libyan government to bring to justice" those who killed Ambassador Chris Stevens was the first U.S. ambassador killed in the line of duty in 30 years.

Russian Prime Minister Dmitry Medvedev on Wednesday called for three members of the punk band Pussy Riot to be freed, a sign that the women's release could be imminent since their case comes up for appeal on Oct. 1.

The band members were arrested for performing a raucous prayer inside Moscow's main cathedral asking Virgin Mary to save Russia from Vladimir Putin as he headed into the election that handed him a third term as president. They had already spent more than five months in jail when they were convicted in August of "hooliganism driven by religious hatred" and sentenced to two years in prison.

By being the one to call for the women's release, Medvedev, who has cultivated the image of a more liberal leader, could allow Putin to put the uncomfortable case behind him while not appearing weak.

The outward appearance of the women, who perform in bright-colored miniskirts and balaclavas, and the "hysteria" accompanying them made him sick, Medvedev said with disdain. But he said keeping them in prison any longer would be "unproductive."

"In my view, a suspended sentence would be sufficient, taking into account the time they have already spent in custody," he said during a televised meeting with members of his United Russia party in the city of Penza.

The band members' imprisonment has come to symbolize Putin's intensifying crackdown on dissent after his return to the presidency. Their cause has been taken up by celebrities and musicians, including Madonna and Paul McCartney, and protests have been held around the world.

Plastic bag ban takes effect

The government of India's capital is hoping that a strict ban on plastic bags will help the environment. An engineer with Delhi's government says that starting next week, the manufacture and sale of all types of plastic sheets and bags will be banned in the city, citing their environmental dangers. B.M.S Reddy said Wednesday that the ban will include shopping bags, garbage bags and all kinds of plastic film and storage packets. Only plastic bags required for medical waste will be exempt.

In 2009, Delhi banned the use of plastic shopping bags, but authorities have had little success enforcing the ban. Plastic bags also pose a risk to the thousands of cows that roam the city and end up swallowing them while foraging for food in Delhi's open garbage dumps.

Match-fixing: Why no crackdown?

Time to act. A year has passed, but soccer bosses have done little. They say they're waiting for FIFA to guide them

ottawa@metronews.ca

The Canadian Soccer League has done little since learning over a year ago that European match-fixers are in Canada actively seeking to manipulate games in the CSL.

The league, which has teams in Ontario and Quebec, and the Canadian Soccer Association (CSA) are waiting on FIFA for guidance on how to respond.

In the meantime, convicted, confessed match-fixers have been caught on tape talking about purchasing a local Canadian team.

In a documentary that aired on CBC's The National last night, CSL commissioner Vincent Ursini said the league is aware of the problem and is waiting on FIFA.

Since I brought CBC this story more than a year ago

More evidence

Even before the documentary had aired last night, three current CSL players had reached out to share what they know about match-fixing in the league.

- They each told similar tales of being approached with offers of bribes to fix games. Metro will continue to follow the story.
- If you have any information you would like to share with Metro on matchfixing in Canadian soccer, please contact letters@metronews.ca.

— with the help of their investigative team — the story has grown into one that has spanned three countries and two continents.

Importantly, it would include pages of German police wiretaps and court documents.

Those documents were flush with conversations between Ante Sapina, Marijo Cvrtak and Chris Budimir — German-based match-fixers — talking about how they could manipulate games in the Canadian Soccer League.

And once they had actually done it, the tapes caught their overwhelming glee at their prospects.

"If we don't become rich here, then I don't know where we could become rich," Budimir told Cvrtak, the CBC reported.

Meanwhile, their conversations extended further, even looking at what it would take to buy a team and arguing at how fast they should go about doing that.

According to the wiretaps, Budimir reported back to Cvrtak in 2009 that players make less than $500 a month and a club in the CSL could be bought for $150,000.

According to Budimir, buying was a three-year process. Cvrtak wanted to know if it could be done in one.

"They are all amateurs.... Nobody knows that they have teams there like here," Budimir told Cvrtak on the wiretap.

"One can start a team there with $150,000 and play in the first league right away."

Full stop.

Now that this information is public, there are calls for the CSA to conduct an investigation into who is financing teams in the CSL.

If it's going to continue to sanction the league, a full investigation by the CSA into who is financing teams in the CSL is immediately warranted. For now, the CSL has yet to file an official complaint with the local police and RCMP.

Wiretap evidence

$20,000 bribe paid off

According to the CBC, the wiretaps detail how one of the fixers — a man by the name of Zivko Budimir — arranged a fix in 2009.

He paid CSL all-star Antonio Zupan $20,000, which he shared with four teammates on Toronto Croatia.

In exchange for accepting the bribe, Zupan and Toronto Croatia ensured they would lose by at least two goals to the Trois-Rivières Attak on Sept. 12, 2009.

Zupan, who missed a crucial penalty in the game, was successful: The final result was 4-1 in the Attak's favour.

The fixers had wagered $143,000 on a combination of bets that included that game.

Obama's new love for beer taps into male voters bank

Losing the suds war?

Due to his Mormon faith, rival Romney doesn't drink alcohol

Is Barack Obama's sudden fondness for chugging beer beginning to pay off?

A spate of new polls released this week suggests the president is gaining popularity among male voters, closing the gap on Mitt Romney's longtime advantage with white, working-class men.

Three of the surveys even have Obama inching past his Republican rival for the White House among male voters — a trend that could spell doom for Romney if it continues, since most opinion polls suggest Obama has an edge with female voters.

Obama, a Harvard-educated lawyer long suspected of enjoying a barrel-aged chardonnay more than a glass of stout, has been doing his part to downplay his elitist, intellectual image to appeal to working-class men.

In August, he bought a round of Bud Lights for supporters at the Iowa State Fair, swiftly transforming the usual chants of "Four More Years!" into a chorus of "Four More Beers!"

He makes frequent mention of the White House micro-brewery he's started. The White House recently made public Obama's honey ale and honey lager recipes, complete with a video of the commander-in-chief helping with the brewing process.

He's also made a point of stopping at pubs and ale houses while on the campaign trail, ordering up icy mugs of beer as the cameras snap him mid-quaff.

The well-heeled Romney, too, has been battling perceptions he's an out-of-touch elitist as he attempts to maintain his popularity among working-class men. Yet Romney's mingling with the common man doesn't quite have the same cachet in beer-loving America as Obama's does.

North Korea refuses aid from South Korea: Seoul

North Korea rejected South Korea's offer of food and medical supplies to help flood victims Wednesday, Seoul said.

After Pyongyang asked what aid items the South could send, Seoul on Tuesday proposed providing 10,000 tonnes of flour, three million packages of ramen noodles and medical supplies.

On Wednesday, North Korea's Red Cross sent a message expressing its dissatisfaction with the assistance offered and saying it doesn't need "such aid," Seoul's Unification Ministry said in a statement.

Is N. Korea changing?

Economy. Observers increasingly convinced market reform is on the horizon, similar to China's 30 years ago

Deep in the North Korean countryside, in remote villages that outsiders seldom reach, farmers are now said to be given nearly one-third of their harvests to sell at market prices.

Collective farms are reportedly being reorganized into something closer to family farms. State propagandists are expounding the glories of change under the country's new young leader.

In the rigidly planned economy of this Stalinist state, could this be the first flicker of reform? A string of long-doubtful observers have become increasingly convinced that economic change is afoot, akin to China's first flirtations with market reforms 30 years ago. But, they also warn, exactly what is happening remains a mystery.

No outsiders are known to have been to the villages, in Ryanggang province, since the new policies reportedly went into effect. No outsiders have seen the details of the June 28 government order — "On the Establishing of a New Economic Management System in Our Own Style" — that supposedly launched the program. Other reported reforms, from shifts in investment laws to new industrial profit-sharing regulations, are even more opaque.

Still, there are undeniable signs that the world's most closed-off society may be toying with change, from a carefully scripted campaign to soften the image of the country's young leader, Kim Jong Un, to the apparent purging of a hardline general and a series of often-cryptic official statements hinting that Pyongyang is serious about liberalizing its economy.

If the latest reform reports are true, they would almost certainly be driven in part by China. Beijing has long pressed Pyongyang to enact reforms similar to its own first steps toward a market economy.

Ethnic identity. Rachel lets you speak your mind

When the Bank of Canada removed an image of a female scientist billed as Asian-looking from its new $100 banknotes, Rachel Décoste took to the Internet.

She decided to start a cross-country dialogue on what it means when someone identifies as Canadian.

"One of the things that the national narrative of Canada negates most of the time are the struggles, the daily struggles, that exist for people who are not 'neutrally' ethnic," Décoste said.

In late August, she launched Neutraethnicity.

com, calling on Canadians to share their stories about belonging and identity.

Stories, poems and essays from Nova Scotia to Vancouver, have started to trickle into Décoste's inbox.

Stories from Canadians like Abubakar Kasim, who wrote about his experience dealing with a frustrated traveller at Toronto's Pearson International Airport as a customer service agent.

The woman angrily said to him: "Can I speak to someone from this country, please?"

Family money dispute?

Cops now have leads in French Alps murders

Investigators are pursuing three leads in the killings of a British-Iraqi couple and two other people in the French Alps, but there are no suspects yet, a prosecutor said Wednesday.

The leads include an alleged family financial dispute.

Meanwhile, relatives of the dead couple called for those responsible to be brought quickly to justice.

Saad Al-Hilli, his wife Iqbal, and an elderly woman were shot dead inside a car, while a French cyclist riding nearby also was killed.

The couple's seven-year-old daughter survived but was badly hurt, while her four-year-old sister was unharmed. All four people killed suffered two bullets to the head among other wounds.

Bad booze in Czech Republic kills 19 in region

The Czech Republic announced emergency measures Wednesday to combat a wave of alcohol poisoning, saying that 19 people have died and 24 have been hospitalized after drinking vodka and rum laced with methanol.

Methanol is mainly used for industrial purposes but, since it's cheap and impossible to distinguish from real alcohol, criminals sometimes lace black-market alcohol with it to guarantee high profits.

Prime Minister Petr Necas urged all Czechs to refrain from drinking "any alcohol whose origin is uncertain." Of the 16 people confirmed dead in the Czech Republic, eight lived in the northeast; two others died in Poland and one more in Slovakia.

283 die in Pakistan fires, victims trapped

Tragic factory fires.

Police are searching for the factory managers and placed the owner on a list of people not allowed to leave the country

Fires swept through two clothing factories in Pakistan, leaving 283 people dead — many trapped behind locked doors and barred windows — highlighting the atrocious working conditions in a country where workplaces often lack basic safety equipment and owners bribe officials to ignore the violations.

The twin blazes broke out Tuesday night at a garment factory in the southern port city of Karachi and a shoe manufacturer in the eastern city of Lahore. At least 258 people died in the fire in Karachi, another 25 perished in Lahore.

No escape routes

"It is a criminal act to lock the emergency exit doors, and we are trying to know who did it, and why," said Roshan Ali Sheikh, a government official.

Amish group in attacks thought they were above law: Prosecutor

A breakaway group that carried out hair-cutting attacks against fellow Amish in Ohio thought they were above the law because of their religious belief, a U.S. federal prosecutor said Wednesday during closing arguments of their hate crimes trial.

Sixteen members of the group planned or took part in the attacks last year because of disputes involving their bishop. "These were acts of love," said an attorney Dean Carro, who represents a man who is accused of cutting his father's hair. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Video of sleepwalking woman a big hit

A screengrab from the YouTube video of sleepwalking Patricia Foti in action.

YouTube. New Jersey man recorded footage of dancing mother

Quick thinking in the dead of night inspired Nicola Foti to capture his mother sleepwalking, dancing and "trying to open the tomato cage."

His video and her reaction had more than eight million views on YouTube by Tuesday.

"That boggles my mind," said Foti from his home in central New Jersey, where he makes a good living running four YouTube channels.

Despite his video career,

"My mom ... has the best sense of humour. She is the best sport, not just a good sport." Nicola Foti nothing about this one was planned.

"I went down to the kitchen for some tea, it's completely dark and I hear this rustling. My mom is in the dining area and she's wiggling. She mumbled something. I thought this is going to be too funny, so I took my iPhone out of my pocket and started recording."

The next-day video of his mother, Patricia Foti, reacting to the original sleepwalking video is actually twice as popular, possibly because an embed means you get a twofer.

"One thing I want to make clear is that my mom is not mad about this," said Foti, who is 27 and lives at home.

"My mom ... has the best sense of humour. She is the best sport, not just a good sport."

And neither she nor he have any idea what a tomato cage is supposed to be.

In fact, Patricia Foti went along with her son's next video, The Cinnamon Challenge, to see if they could swallow a tablespoon of the spice. No, is the short answer.

"It sucks all the moisture out of your mouth. It's horrible."

Foti started posting videos on his first channel, Soundly Awake, in 2008, and has been making money from the ad revenue since January 2009. Now, with four channels that have hundreds of thousands of subscribers from all over the world, Foti says he can pay his bills "and go out to eat."

"I just finally paid off my student loans."

Lighter, thinner smartphone will be available in North America on Sept. 21

The new iPhone 5 is thinner and lighter than previous versions with a taller screen, and will be in stores in Canada, the U.S. and several other countries on Sept. 21.

The iPhone 5 is the year's most eagerly awaited phone launch. Analysts expect Apple Inc. to sell tens of millions of units before the year is out.

It will come with the capability to connect to the fastest new wireless data networks, both in the U.S. and overseas. That's another feature that was widely expected. Some competing phones have had this ability for a year and a half.

Samsung Electronics Co. has increased the screen size of its flagship phone line every year, which is about 45 per cent larger than the one on the new iPhone. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A threat to BlackBerry?

The iPhone 5 is also a formidable threat to BlackBerry-maker Research In Motion.

The Waterloo, Ont.-based company — once known as Canada's high-tech heavyweight — has been working to turn around its operations as consumers switched to the iPhone and other smartphones running Google's Android operating system.

The company's future success rides on the unveiling of its BlackBerry 10 operating system, which has suffered two major delays that have pushed its debut into early 2013 — past the holiday shopping season that Apple has squarely in its sights.

A REMEDY FOR A CASE OF THE MAYOR ROB FORD

HE SAYS...
John Mazerolle
metronews.ca

Whether you suffer from Toronto Mayor Rob Ford or just know someone who does, this guide will help you understand the issue and symptoms of Toronto Mayor Rob Ford and how to talk about it.

In this pamphlet you'll find helpful tips for coping and an explainer for those outside Toronto, many of whom have found themselves asking WTF — Why the Ford Administration? What is Toronto Mayor Rob Ford?:

Rob Ford spent a decade inside Toronto causing minor outbursts, with observers paying little heed to the symptoms. However, the unexpected bonding with a mayor's chair two years ago has made Toronto Mayor Rob Ford — or TMRF — more powerful than previously expected.

Thanks to a series of TMRF incidents appearing on the national news, Toronto Mayor Rob Ford has crossed over the so-called municipal barrier and has now infected the national consciousness.

It's not unusual for people as far away as Vancouver or St. John's to ask, "Is this for real?" It most definitely is.

Some symptoms include disbelief at what you're hearing, disbelief at what you're seeing, and journalists high-fiving each other at their uncommon good luck.

The end result is a rash of scandals. Don't pick at them. These itchy scandals come in many varieties:

- Tickling: Ford blamed a plastic-bag ban passed by city council on the public because, he said, "a couple hundred thousand people" should have rallied in opposition.
- Sore: Ford gets angry a lot, including a confrontation where he made a reporter drop his tape recorder on the ground.
- Life-threatening: Ford said he "probably" reads while driving on Toronto's eight-lane highway because he's "busy."

This would be a good place to remind people that TMRF is real.

How did this TMRF happen?:

It's not uncommon for people across the country to ask Torontonians how TMRF came to be.

The first thing for sufferers to know is they have absolutely nothing to be ashamed of. One of the unusual traits of TMRF is that it only causes discomfort in people who don't want it.

To understand, one must look at an X-ray of a Toronto election map, which looks like the inverse of a U.S. election map. The liberal interior — what most outsiders think of when they think about Toronto — fought hard against TMRF, while the suburban edges breathed it deep.

What can be done:

TMRF can drain your energy, hope and drive, but there are options. Ways to eliminate symptoms include:

- Tilting way to the right.
- Plugging your ears and closing your eyes and singing la la la la for the next two years.

Of course, some people are immune or even enjoy TMRF, including journalists, comedians and other people who enjoy a good story.

As for voters who think the country needs more TMRF and would be happy to see it spread everywhere: Please put this down and watch the road.

No cure has been found for Toronto Mayor Rob Ford (TMRF).

House of PainT showcases Canadian hip-hop talent

Growing festival.
Event has expanded from a few hundred people in 2003 to several thousand attendees this year

The House of PainT festival has come a long way since its inaugural event in 2003, a community celebration of the first legal graffiti wall in Ottawa.

"It was a small affair, just 200 people. My mom made the food, my dad built the stage," says Sabra Ripley, founder and festival director.

"We have taken the festival from being a few hundred people to an expected attendance of several thousand this year."

House of PainT is now a four-day affair representing four disciplines of hip hop — there'll be a b-boy battle, MC showcases, DJs and graffiti writers. Sami Elkout, founder of Ottawa's only street dance studio, The Flavor Factory Urban Dance School, is one of the local b-boys who will be participating in the festival's main event with his dance crew, Breadcrumbs.

Elkout says the group has been training hard and looks forward to duking it out again this year.

"We have a crew huddle before we battle. This gives us a chance to air out what we're thinking and how we want to approach the round. It's good to know the dancers you're getting down with, too. It helps with strategy and who should take which round, song or dancer that comes out," he explains.

Another highlight of the festival this year is the huge concert blowout featuring an almost all-Canadian lineup.

"Ninety-nine per cent of the talent this year is Canadian," boasts Ripley.

"It's a bilingual lineup, which is extremely rare. We've got Radio Radio, a huge act from Quebec, and we're presenting Shad and Maestro."

Also on the bill is Ottawa trio and House of PainT newcomers Flight Distance. The group will be making its first appearance at the festival on its final night.

MC Patrick Jodoin, a.k.a. Patience, is looking forward to sharing the stage with some of the biggest names in Canadian hip hop. "We've known Shad for a few years and have shared the stage with him before. It'll be great to do it again and Maestro's a legend," he says.

CONNECTING VIA SOCIAL MEDIA

CIBC is using social media to inspire Canadians to get engaged, share their stories and register for the CIBC Run for the Cure, which is taking place across Canada on Sunday, Sept. 30.

This year, CIBC introduced two innovative social media initiatives to connect with as many people as possible in the Canadian Breast Cancer Foundation's CIBC Run for the Cure.

The first is to create your own video using the CIBC For All My Girls MashApp on Facebook. Here, you can upload your favourite photos and videos of family and friends who have inspired you to take part in the CIBC Run for the Cure.

You can also choose from a selection of music tracks and add captions. Check out the Mashapp on Facebook at CIBC Community Matters, where ET Canada host Cheryl Hickey introduces a how-to video.

The second is making a personal Pinspiration for a Cure board by using Pinterest. You can pin and repin inspiring images, videos and content, anything from healthy recipes to workout and training tips.

EMOTIONAL CONNECTION

CIBC RUN FOR THE CURE STEPS OUT FOR BREAST CANCER

In 1997, CIBC became the title sponsor of the Canadian Breast Cancer Foundation's Run for the Cure. Now in its 21st year, the Canadian Breast Cancer Foundation CIBC Run for the Cure is the largest single-day, volunteer-led fundraiser dedicated to raising breast cancer funds and awareness.

The 2012 CIBC Run for the Cure will take place Sunday, Sept. 30, in 60 communities across Canada.

Karen Ringstead, the B.C. and Northern Territories run champion, will take part in the CIBC Run for the Cure once again, her 18th year of participation. She lists her favourite moment as watching a recent survivor — a CIBC employee — with her whole family being cheered by Team CIBC upon crossing the finish line.

"I don't want to see cancer move into the fourth generation in our family," says Karen, whose great-grandmother, grandmother, great aunt and mother have all battled breast cancer. "I think it's so important to create awareness of early detection, minimizing risk and how we all can make a difference in fighting against breast cancer."

More than 13,000 CIBC employees and volunteers helped Team CIBC raise more than $3 million through the collection of pledges, fundraising and contributions from the CIBC Pink Collection.

"Our involvement started with a handful of dedicated and passionate employees and has grown into an important part of the fabric of our organization," says Christina Kramer, CIBC's executive vice-president and national run champion.

The events themselves have a festive air about them; teams and other groups of family and friends, some with kids in strollers and others with dogs, will walk or run the route together. Some will wear pink wigs or boas; others will carry pink balloons and banners. White T-shirts will proclaim the slogan, "Who are you running for?"

There will be lots of breast cancer survivors walking and running, too. Somewhere near the starting line, participants can post personal messages for loved ones and others on the Wall of Hope.

"CIBC is proud to support the Canadian Breast Cancer Foundation because of the work they do in not only finding a cure but in prevention and early detection as well," says Christina Kramer, CIBC's executive vice-president and the national run champion. "Our CIBC Pink Collection is another way to show our support and raise awareness for such an important cause."

The 2012 CIBC Pink Collection was officially launched at branches across Canada on July 26. CIBC works with suppliers to create products and also takes ideas to its employees for the input.

"The foundation continues to be inspired by CIBC's ongoing commitment to the CIBC Run for the Cure," says Kramer. "The funds raised by the CIBC Pink Collection, in addition to Team CIBC fundraising and volunteer support, is a testament to the tremendous dedication of CIBC's staff and clients toward our vision of creating a future without breast cancer."

It's imperative to the program that the most possible money goes back to the Canadian Breast Cancer Foundation (CBCF). In fact, 100 per cent of net proceeds from the pink products support the CBCF.

CIBC Pink Collection "hangtags" identify the product and the cause; they also show the suggested contribution amount.

People usually contribute the suggested amount on the hangtag, if not more.

CIBC and the Canadian Breast Cancer Foundation (CBCF) have once again issued a challenge to Canada's college and university students to see who can raise the most money for breast cancer research, education and awareness initiatives.

'It's the kind of thing you don't say no to if you're in comedy'

Comedy. Family

Guy creator Seth MacFarlane opens SNL season as guest host

You might think Seth MacFarlane has a show-biz bucket list.

By now, he's checked off ventures like his animated TV shows (led by Family Guy), his recording of show tunes, live performances at Carnegie Hall and this summer's film comedy, Ted, which he directed, wrote and provided the title character's voice for. Now MacFarlane will serve as guest host this week for the season premiere of NBC's Saturday Night Live. Was this just the next gig on his to-do list?

"Not exactly," MacFarlane said Tuesday. "When things come up, I tackle them if they sound fun. That's how I decide what to do and what not to do. It's what sounds like it's going to be a good time."

But there's another reason he was reporting to Studio 8H.

"They asked me," he explained. "It's the kind of thing you don't say no to if you're in comedy."

For a multimedia comedy impresario, MacFarlane might not seem ideally suited to SNL, where he is being treated warmly, but not in his customary role as the boss.

"It's always a nice break to not be the guy in charge," he insisted. And with his edition of SNL being polished off in just a week, the routine should prove a refreshing change, too.

"It's the complete antithesis of the nine months it takes us to do one episode of an animated series."

While MacFarlane arrived

Kenan Thompson, left, is pictured with Seth MacFarlane earlier this week on the set of Saturday Night Live. HANDOUT

Future plans?

- Looking beyond Saturday, MacFarlane said future projects he'd like to do include another film and even maybe an on-camera acting role.
- "We'll see if this weekend is a disaster or not," he hedged. "But I do like trying things I haven't tried before. It kind of gets the blood going."

"I sat in on a pitch where writers threw out a bunch of one-line sketch ideas, and there were a lot of hilarious ones. There's no shortage of fresh stuff."

But along with comedy, will the silver-throated MacFarlane sing a song on the show?

"Possibly," he said. "But it's too soon to tell."

As the series begins its 38th season (Saturday at 11:30 p.m. ET), MacFarlane will be sharing the bill with musical guest Frank Ocean. Meanwhile, cast member Cecily Strong and featured players Aidy Bryant and Tim Robinson will be joining the troupe.

Third album of exploratory Yeasayer welcomes you to a Fragrant World

Layering sounds.

Brooklyn act enjoy task of experimenting while keeping music fresh, interesting

scene@metronews.ca

For an experimental-minded band with an ear for hooks, there's a fine line to walk between pushing new sounds forward and maintaining a larger audience's attention. That's the dichotomy at work in the music of Yeasayer, the Brooklyn band that released its third record, Fragrant World, late last month.

The follow-up to their breakthrough indie hit Odd Blood picks up where that eclectic mix of far-flung rhythms, synths and off-kilter dance beats left off, on songs like Longevity, a churning layer cake of sound that squiggles and glitches, but coalesces into a romantic, multi-tracked harmonized groove. "That's the challenge, right? Trying to make some interesting sounds, but have them work in a three-and-a-half to four-minute context," says vocalist Chris Keating.

"Trying to walk that line between experimenting and still have interesting melodies that are accessible, it's part of the fun."

Theirs is a process of stuffing as many tracks into one song as possible, says Keating.

"We'll build up songs until they're sky-high and start to strip away for a lot of it."

He says it's a technique

It's not 'world music'

The band, somehow saddled with the "indie world music" moniker, says that was an inside joke that's gotten out of hand.

- "It's clearly inaccurate," Keating says. "I think some of that is subtle, not intentional, racism. Because we have a guy in the band who happens to have dark skin and an Indian background, people talk about 'that world-music band.'"
- A lot of their songs are three different tracks chopped together.

he's long admired in Prince.

"We pile on ideas, then strip away a lot of the middle and lower layers, and leave this floating melody."

Paloma Faith's new album of sad, soulful songs

Fall to Grace.

Sad songs say so much; 'a broken heart beats beneath' the tunes on Grace

scene@metronews.ca

With tabloids touting headlines like "Pregnant Adele's joy," you might find yourself thinking: "That's great that she's happy, but where am I gonna get my fix of sad songs sung by soulful British women?"

The answer to your checkout-line musing is Paloma Faith's new album, Fall to Grace. With lyrics like "This is agony, but it's still a thrill for me" and "Falling never hurts, but landing does" paired with classic soul song structures and shamelessly contemporary pop production, Grace is your latest soundtrack to heartache.

Faith, a tabloid fixture in her own right in the U.K., even helped Adele's career kick off.

"I just kind of gave her one of her first gigs," she says humbly. "I didn't give her her start. She gave herself her start."

Faith doesn't mind the comparisons: "If it was somebody who wasn't doing quite as well as her, I might feel strange. But honestly, if I could have a tenth of the success that she's had in the U.S. then I'd be smiling forever into my grave."

Smiling into the grave is what Grace is all about.

Songs are hooky and polished, but a broken heart beats beneath.

"There were songs on the record that were produced to sound super hopeful, but when you listen to the lyrics they're sad," she says.

"I wouldn't say it's a tragic record. It's a realistic record."

Back to basics

With such a pop sheen, courtesy of producer Nellee Hooper, it's hard to believe that Paloma Faith will be bringing these songs to small watering holes. "It's very sort of back-to-basics for me," says Faith. "The venues are small, and I can't bring my full setup."

- But she's not complaining. "The bigger you get with the production, the less you can do with spontaneity," she says. "You've got to plan with the lighting people and plan with the sound engineer what you're going to do, whereas this is more stripped back." In so many ways the small watering hole is appropriate for a soulful album like this.

OUR TAKE ON THE WORLD OF CELEBRITIES

The Word

Rob and Kristen back together?

When Kristen Stewart told the Associated Press last week that she and Robert Pattinson would "be fine," maybe she knew more than she was letting on, as sources say the pair are secretly back together, according to Lainey Gossip.

"It was communicated to people during the Toronto International Film Festival that they are (back together) but they're worried about how it might affect (Rob's) career, like whether or not there will be some kind of crazy backlash or something," the source says.

No liquor for Lively

With her marriage to Ryan Reynolds last weekend on the books, Blake Lively apparently isn't wasting any time getting their domestic life going.

"I've always wanted a big family. Oh, I'd love 30 kids if I could," Lively says in the latest issue of Allure.

The Gossip Girl star also lives a pretty clean life free of drugs and alcohol — and nightclubs.

"The music is so loud, you can't have a conversation with somebody," she says. "If I were an amazing dancer, yeah, I'd go, but I'm definitely not."

Marc Jacobs

At Marc Jacobs' Spring show, models donned up in severe side partings and smudgy black eyeliner reminiscent of Edie Sedgwick stormed the runway in bold black, maroon and beige stripes. The graphic appeared on shrunken blazers, trapeze jackets and low-slung midi skirts. Unlike the denizens of the Factory though, Jacobs' girl is a careerist. Curvy dresses with scalloped hems, sensible skirt suits with long, lean silhouettes and ruffle collar separates would fit right in at an office but the midriff-baring cropped tops, including a black, full-sleeve version featuring Mickey Mouse, not so much.

Donna Karan

Donna Karan struck gold with her choice of materials for her spring line. Sheer jersey and paper linen molded perfectly to create architectural silhouettes and artful pleats and folds. But the natural, organic feel of the fabrics paired with Karan's use of dusty, cold-dyed colours gave the collection a dreamy tone. This effect of sharp lines and soft shades was meant to evoke "sunrise and sunsets in the city" – you know, those pretty moments when light reflects off skyscrapers. The cool, cropped jackets, worn over empire waist dresses, will be just what a city girl needs when those buildings' air conditioning kicks into gear.

NEILSON BARNARD/GETTY IMAGES

SLAVEN VLASIC/GETTY IMAGES

Tommy Hilfiger

Tommy Hilfiger transported showgoers at the Highline back to the Hamptons for one last Fourth of July-type seaside soiree. With hurricane lanterns hanging over a deck-like runway, models sailed by in bold red, white and blue striped looks. Some read cool (the double-breasted blazers and chunky cardigans) and others too patriotic (a preppy navy jacket over a red, white and blue striped shirt and trousers). The colours then came in zigzags on dresses and one-piece halter swimsuits before winding up on the trim of plain white shifts. Breton stripes were also big (on cotton schoolboy shirts and leather tops), as were chunky cable knit sweaters.

DKNY

For her spring show, titled Reflections of New York Donna Karan aimed to define a girl living the big city dream. She's ambitious: smart workwear separates such as boyfriend blazers and knee-grazing pencil skirts came in leather and colour-blocked, textured linen. She's ready for whatever comes her way: the body-suit played double-duty as a bathing suit, and models wore fanny packs. She's street smart: sporty mesh and leather detailing, camo prints, fitted black baseball caps and heeled sneakers exuded an urban tone.

PETER MICHAEL DILLS/GETTY IMAGES

Rebecca Taylor

The biography of Beach Boy Brian Wilson transported Rebecca Taylor to one of her favourite vacation haunts: Hawaii. But while her imagination sipped on mai tais, this hard-working woman spent the summer in New York. The two worlds harmonized perfectly in her spring collection: Sunny, hibiscus floral prints came cut in sharp, strong silhouettes, while polished dresses were made tough with studded collars and worn under moto jackets in laid-back, faded denim or poppy turquoise leather. And for post-sunset, a nude, silk studded cocktail number featured cheery ocean blue straps, perhaps to remind you of paradise even when you're stuck in the city.

Wear what you want

Wedding fashions. It's your big day, so break the rules, but there are some trends that are hot

KELLY PUTTER
For Metro

Wedding fashions don't change much based on the seasons because no self-respecting bride would let weather get in the way of her grand entrance.

Brocade in summer, chiffon in winter, sandals come fall — the rules of fashion don't apply on the big day when the bride has her heart set on a certain look. So bare your shoulders in February. Go floor-length in July's heat.

That said, there are certain trends and styles that are more popular than others this fall and winter.

Last year's royal wedding of Prince William and Kate Middleton may be to blame for the current hoopla over lace, say Ottawa bridal fashion gurus.

"We've been seeing more simple fabrics for several years and designers are reintroducing lace to their collections and girls love it," says Dominique Levesque, owner of a self-named bridal boutique. "We started getting people asking for lace after the royal wedding so it's probably linked to that."

While strapless gowns are still all the rage, straps

Whatever looks good

"Anything goes. I've done dresses in 100 per cent black. Now people are saying why not wear whatever looks good."

David McCaffrey

and long sleeves are making a comeback thanks to the popular duchess, says David McCaffrey of McCaffrey Haute Couture.

"We're seeing low backs and the use of colour," says McCaffrey. "Anything goes. I've done dresses in 100 per cent black. Now people are saying why not wear whatever looks good."

Birdcage veils are hot for fall and winter. These retro headpieces consist of a small mesh veil that partially covers the face and an embellishment such as a flower or crystal that is pinned to the back or side of the head.

One concession some brides do make to their fall and winter wedding ensemble is something to keep them warm, says Marley Lewington of David's Bridal in Ottawa.

"Many brides are picking up shrugs and shawls to cover

Straps are making a comeback with wedding dresses thanks to the dress that Kate Middleton wore during the royal wedding. BARBARA ANN STUDIOS their shoulders so they don't get chilly," says Lewington. "For winter weddings you see satin shawls and bolero jackets."

Prettied up sashes are hugely popular with brides opting for a mid-body focal point on their dresses in rhinestones, big flowers and crystals, says Dana Alexander, co-owner of Ottawa's With Love Bridal Boutique.

Clean, simple palettes are big, as is the perennial favourite, black and white. The beauty of this colour combo, says Alexander, is that bridesmaids can gussy up their black frocks with an ornate mental sash that fits the wedding's theme and then wear the same dress sans sash to a completely different function.

Jewel tones of sapphire, aubergine, cobalt blue and ruby red tend to be more popular in fall and winter.

While the trend to vary dress styles or colours within the bridal party is still strong, Levesque is seeing a return to uniformity.

"This year we're seeing people going towards all wearing the same dress because it gives a nice uniform look when going for photos," Levesque says.

An island wedding could define your style. ISTOCKPHOTO/THINKSTOCK

Define your own style

KELLY PUTTER
For Metro

The biggest day of your life shouldn't be fraught with unrealistic expectations or over-the-top expenses that burn through money you don't have.

But many couples face the altar under that heavy load due to social pressures thanks to media, friends and family.

"Modern weddings are full productions," says Ottawa wedding planner Shannon Kennedy.

"With the recent increase in wedding shows and movies there is an expectation for bridal couples to put on large, detailed, extravagant events." Don't, if you can't afford to, she warns.

"The first three decisions a couple should make is what budget are we comfortable with?" says Kennedy. "How many people do we want to include and what style of wedding do we want?"

Your budget will determine the number of guests you can invite and, to a certain extent, how elaborate your party will be. If you are looking to put on an ultra-glamorous Hollywood-style affair with a budget of $10,000, you better rewrite that script.

Your guest list need not include everyone you went to grade school with. In fact, says Kennedy, a good rule of thumb is to invite only those you have seen or spoken to in the past six months.

Your big day should represent you and your partner. JUPITERIMAGES/PIXLAND/THINKSTOCK

Another misconception worth purging is that you need to invite people whose wedding you were invited to. No need to feel obligated on that count either.

Defining your style can be difficult, but bear in mind that your big day should represent you and your partner. Whether you are into art collecting, outdoor sports, or sci-fi, let your interests guide you to include personal touches that reflect your likes and passions.

Kennedy recalls former clients and hockey nuts that planned their wedding around the original six NHL teams. Groomsmen wore Montreal Canadiens jerseys while the bridesmaids wore red, white and royal blue. The officiant sported a referee jersey and instead of ending the ceremony by announcing the couple could kiss, he dropped a puck so they could shoot it down the aisle.

"What makes weddings beautiful and successful is when personal touches are carried throughout the wedding," she says.

"If you love vintage or purple don't be afraid to incorporate that throughout the event."

Eco-friendly nuptials.

Consider using foods and beverages that are locally sourced

For Metro

The bridesmaids each have a pretty dress they can gladly wear to future cocktail parties, the couple rides in a hybrid limousine and the napkins at the reception are cloth.

Those are just a few of the things you can do to ensure that your wedding is eco-friendly.

"You don't need to have a royal budget to have a green wedding," says Amanda O'Reilly, a wedding concierge, who owns Weddings InStyle, a one-stop nuptials shop. "If you're really committed, it's really not that difficult to go green."

What wedding guests consume at the reception is where many couples focus their eco-consciousness. Serving organic foods and beverages that are locally sourced is a hot restaurant trend that's spilling into today's wedding industry.

Consider vegetarian options, soups using fall harvest vegetables, free-range proteins or meats and fish that are wild as opposed to farmed. A plated service is greener as it produces far less waste than buffets.

Select organic wines or those made locally and for the teetotalers or children set up a juice bar instead of offering soda pop.

But your marriage can be sustainable from the get-go. O'Reilly recommends choosing vintage or heirloom wedding rings or refashioning grandma's into a design you will love forever.

Your venue is important to note as the less travel involved, the better in terms of your carbon footprint.

Try to minimize travel by having your ceremony and reception in the same spot or close by. If you do need transportation, think of hybrid vehicles, rickshaws or a horse-drawn carriage.

Keep your decor and flowers more natural by bringing elements of the outdoors inside. Use dry grasses, branches, berries, live plants and dried flower arrangements. Avoid scented candles.

Opt for a green gift registry. Request no wrapping paper, donations to a charity of your choice or eco-gifts such as a rain barrel or solar slow cooker.

The sky is the limit when it comes to party favours. Consider seedlings guests can plant, homemade jams and jellies, organic chocolate or a USB key with the wedding's playlist on it.

Once the party is over unload pricier items on recyclebride.com, an online marketplace dedicated to the wedding industry.

If you need transportation and thinking about going green for your wedding, try rickshaws. SV PHOTOGRAPHY

Centrepieces. Make a statement

Extravagant centrepieces can be nice, but aren't necessary. You may have attended a wedding where the centrepiece impaired guests from talking with each other or from seeing what is happening on stage.

Or perhaps it had so many elements that you wondered how the couple could afford them. If you are preparing for your wedding, consider creating centrepieces that reflect who you and your spouse-to-be really are, without breaking the bank.

For the eco-friendly couple

Sticks and stones. Forgo the regular bouquet of flowers and arrange sticks, stones, and beeswax candles to create a calm, organic feel at the table.

For the contemplative couple

Books or DVDs. Select two books, documentaries, or DVDs that you and your spouse-to-be enjoy or that convey a certain message.

Wrap the two items in a ribbon and give them away as a prize to guests at each table towards the end of the night.

For the do-gooder couple

Promote your cause. In lieu of centrepieces, make a donation to a charity that you and your spouse-to-be support. Place cards at each table that explain why you support the charity and what the money will provide. Organizations like Christian Children's Fund of Canada (ccfcanaada.ca) can give you some ideas on gift items that help impoverished children around the world.

For the "lovey-dovey" couple

Poetry and photos. Showcase your favourite romantic quotes and poems with framed photos from your childhood, teenage years, and adulthood. You can put different photos at every table to get your guests to move around and mingle.

With nods to nostalgia, exotic motifs and tailored contemporary looks, the fall season in decor has lots to inspire home decorators. A warm palette of garnet, plum, sapphire, olive, chocolate, mustard and cream mixes with soft yet textural fabrics and muted metallics as our focus moves back indoors.

Fall 2012 decor preview

VINTAGE AMERICAN

Apparently, we are all supposed to be making butter and putting up jam this fall; many retailers showed kits with the makings for farm table goodies.

Williams-Sonoma had kits for making cheese and butter, along with pretty wooden moulds.

Expanding their Agrarian line beyond the popular chicken coop, the retailer now has an old-school cider and wine press, and a grain mill, should you feel compelled to try your hand at flour making. There were Mason jars, lengths of colored twine and paper tags for gifting.

West Elm showed several different table garden kits, and even a Mason jar cocktail shaker.

Gingham, potato prints and buffalo checks; rough linen, burlap and cotton homespun textiles; earthy, rustic ceramics; chunky knitted pillow covers and throws; and galvanized-metal storage containers were all part of home retailers' fall previews.

Distressed and salvaged wood furniture and forged iron accessories also are part of this look, so watch for affordable examples if it appeals. Grandin Road has mirrors and wall hooks made of old yardsticks.

Pottery Barn has the Conner collection of reclaimed pine tables with limestone tops, and the Olivia bench with a weathered blue finish.

Here too: candle holders fashioned out of old whiskey barrels and olive oil crates.

Rejuvenation Lighting is reproducing O.C. White's foundry-made task lighting from the late 1800s, in both table and floor lamps. Southern Lights' spare, utilitarian bronze pendants with Edison bulbs are vintage-inspired but have a modern edge, with bright red cording.

PARISIAN PANACHE

Tufted furniture and mirrored, lacquered furnishings evoke the elan of a turn-of-the-century French apartment, or maybe old Hollywood glamour.

Arhaus' curvy Club Apartment sofa fits the bill. West Elm's silvery, glass-covered keepsake boxes do too; you'll find substantially sized, etched, mercury-glass light fixtures here as well.

Bernhardt has the low-profile Lotus coffee table, Balboa media console and Gustav dining table, all in lustrous polished steel.

At BlissLivingHome, you'll find coquettish, gold, antique-lace-trimmed sheets, as well as little pillows made of tufted lavender silk, sequins or saucy black lace mesh.

Faux furs return this winter at many retailers. PB Teen and PB Kids will be stocking cozy faux fur sleeping bags, throws and neck pillows in animal prints.

SUITING STYLE

Menswear fabrics cover many of this fall's upholstered pieces. Crate & Barrel has the Donegal chair in a tweedy plaid, and Tux in houndstooth wool; the Savino ottoman and sectional comes in an Italian suiting stripe. Masters of None offers houndstooth and argyle bamboo bar coasters — indeed, barware in general is a strong trend. Beer making kits, pilsner glasses, bar carts and all the cocktail accouterments were ubiquitous at fall previews in New York.

MID-CENTURY STAYS STRONG

If you haven't bought your '60s-style walnut sideboard yet because you're worried about the longevity of this trend, fret not. Mid-century Modern isn't going anywhere for a while.

Retailers showed a deep commitment to the style, in both furniture and accessories. You can find original and faux versions of many iconic designs, such as the Noguchi amoeba-shaped glass and wood table, Eames' walnut and leather chairs, and Saarinen tulip dining tables, at Allmodern.com and Room and Board.

Furniture maker Porky Hefer of Cape Town, South Africa, has done a great group of turned-wood pendant fixtures modeled after children's spinning tops. The shapes echo those found in mid-century design, and they'd look great hung in multiples over a tailored wool sofa (West Elm).

The hues of the era — olive, almond, chocolate, orange — show up in soft furnishings, including throw pillows and curtains. But they're particularly striking in oversize art glass and ceramics, which you'll see lots of this season.

The Blenko Glass Company, an icon of the '50s and '60s, is partnering with Rejuvenation this fall on a line of retro glass lamps. Pottery Barn has the hefty Clift wine jug table lamps; Crate & Barrel's got a new collection of reactive-finish and lacquered vases.

GRAPHIC MODERN

Orange, tomato, egg yolk, aqua, ebony and snow white — some of the hues that define the crisp, often edgy graphic modern style.

CB2 sets the tone with their bright orange and yellow steel home-office pieces, modern art rugs, and array of accent pillows. The Sakano, Snake and Shift pillows punch things up with bold graphics; so does the Crystal runner rug, with a multihued kaleidoscope pattern.

Chevrons, polka dots, ikat and broad stripes have carried over from spring and summer. Crate & Barrel's Alston and Olin collection of textiles features gold and graphite stripes on ivory backgrounds.

Ikea's fall preview showed oversize polka-dot felt rugs in hot pink and lime, and cheerful red-and-white-dotted bedding.

At Design Within Reach, Eames' iconic moulded plastic Eiffel chair comes in some new colours, including red, sky blue and sparrow, a soft charcoal that's one of the season's most on-trend hues.

Typography also has staying power as a decorative element in both accessories and wall art. Grandin Road has something a little different: cubbies in the shape of numbers and arrows.

GLOBAL GOODS

The artisan communities of Asia and Africa continue to be prolific sources of decor, as affection for global style stays strong among retailers this season. India takes a star turn; watch for pierced and hammered metal objects, as well as silks embellished and printed with elephants, tigers and other ethnic motifs.

PB Teen and Urban Outfitters' colourful medallion, ikat and suzani textiles look fresh from the bazaar. Zimbabwean Tonga baskets, Kuba cloth benches and Cape Town textured ceramics are part of West Elm's collaboration with South African designers.

Pier One and World Market have carved wall art and basketry. Kilim-covered accessories such as pillows and coffee tables are less costly ways to add global elements.

As decor trends move toward more colour and traditional curvy lines, it's expected that Moroccan styles will emerge in a big way. The contemporary curvy lines and colours like orange, blue and white make it a trend-on element to include in modern decor. Other influences that blend easily with this trend are Middle Eastern patterns, handmade Moorish designs and Havana colours. Dear Always Prepared,
When this happens, the room is always full of guests and everyone stares at you!

The few times this has happened, the first thing I do is pick up the large pieces of glass.

I then use the vacuum, ideally a hand-held one to pick up the glass and then I use very thick towels to absorb the wine liquid.

At this point I judge the damage and either just leave it and wash the entire rug the following day or in the case of red wine will use club soda to flush the stain and re-absorb the liquid with a second set of thick dry towels.

Whatever you do, don't make a big deal about it. The person who has made the spill will feel bad enough. Let them help you with instructions of what you want them to do, then stay calm, make the treatment and go back to your party and have a fabulous time.

Know the new rules

Restrictions. Feds recently announced fourth set of changes to mortgages in the past four years

For Metro

In June, Finance Minister Jim Flaherty announced the fourth round of mortgage restrictions in four years. Among other changes, those with less than 20 per cent equity will no longer be able to get a prime mortgage with a 30-year amortization; the maximum is now 25 years.

Another change is that the maximum refinance LTV (loan to value) ratio will be 80 per cent, down from 85. (The LTV ratio is calculated by dividing the loan balance of a property by the market value and is expressed as a percentage. For example, a property with a loan balance of $400,000 and a market value of $500,000 has a LTV ratio of 80 per cent.)

Cashback down-payment

mortgages are on the way out; federally regulated lenders must eliminate them by the end of October.

In addition, the federal government is capping the maximum debt ratios for households and limiting government insurance to mortgages on homes with a purchase price of less than $1 million.

The new rules are meant to lower risk for taxpayers and curb high household debt, and they are mostly designed to help control the skyrocketing housing markets in Central and Western Canada. But what impact will they have on first-time homebuyers in general?

"Starter buyers will often have to borrow greater than 80 per cent," says Corey Regan, a mortgage specialist with One Stop Financial Solutions Inc. in Dartmouth, N.S.

New mortgage rules are meant to lower risk for taxpayers and curb high household debt. JUPITERIMAGES/BRAND X PICTURES/THINKSTOCK

And with five years shaved off the amortization, their monthly mortgage payments will be higher."

Experts estimate that it's not unreasonable to expect that at least 10 per cent of first-time buyers could be shut out of the market by these changes. Assuming that up to half of purchases come from first-timers, then overall home demand could slide five per cent or more — at least until house prices fall.

However, it isn't impossible to enter the market sooner rather than later.

"Maybe you won't be able to afford your dream single-family dwelling in your first choice of neighbourhood," says Regan, "but you can afford a semi-detached in another nice area."

Buying a home is an emotional decision, but if you are willing to reconsider the type of residence you want and where you want it to be, you will have more options.

And if you are set on buying the dream?

"Then you have to be patient and save for another year or two," says Regan.

Old favourites

Rediscover. May the Schwarz be with you as you take a sip of a beautiful classic German beer

For Metro

Today we are going to look at a couple of hidden gems: One, a beautiful classic German beer and style; and the other, a tiny beer lover's paradise that is almost hidden in plain sight, right in the heart of the By-Ward Market.

With Germany having so many inspiring and distinct regional styles seeming to steal most of the headlines, a lesser known style has always impressed me. Schwarzbier translates to "black beer" and has been brewed in the town of Bad Köstritz, Thuringia, in central Germany since 1543.

Despite the foreboding appearance of the beer, it is quite pleasant. And the name of the town Bad Köstritz may also sound menacing, but "Bad" actually it means "Bath" and the town is famous for its spas, sandbanks and magical mineral waters.

So when I went in search of a local establishment that may carry this delightful beer, I was happy to find it in an almost-forgotten place that I haven't visited in quite some time.

As I head downstairs to "the cellar" at 54 York St. beneath the Fish Market restaurant, I see the familiar face of an Ottawa hospitality icon behind the bar in Bill Gordon, who has been the welcoming host at Vineyards Wine Bar and Bistro since 1979. Gordon is a master of all of those things that help make a wonderful gathering "wonderful."

In this cosy little bistro he has amassed an impressive selection of more than 80 wines available by the glass and 350-plus bottles of wine. Vineyards has received The Wine Spectator "Award of Excellence" every year from 1989 until 2011 (2012's must surely be in the mail), which is an unbelievable accomplishment, but wine certainly isn't the only remarkable list you should examine should you visit.

Starting with a clever promotional twist on a Jules Verne novel back in 1985, "Around the World in 18 Beers" was a huge success, and the beer selection has continued to grow. Vineyards offered some of the first Belgian classics to be served in Ottawa, has provided a diverse portfolio of imported specialties and rarities from around the world, and will release a brand new beer menu Friday that will offer more than 150 different brands, including an expanded selection of Canadian craft beers to meet growing demands for local and regional "world class" brews.

Köstritzer Schwarzbier (4.8 per cent alcohol by volume, LCBO 500 ml, $2.75) pours an "almost black" dark chestnut with thick, mocha foam head into a fluted pilsner glass. A malty nose filled with huge coffee/chocolate roast notes, before sweet toffee, dry bakers chocolate, roasted espresso beans and grainy malts delight. Almost creamy smooth and light-bodied, it has a short finish and would be wonderfully paired with hearty beef, soft cheeses, chocolate and German sausages. Do yourself a favour and rediscover some old favourites again (and soon). May the Schwarz be with you!

Replace the light, bright whites of summer with something full and ripe for the days of fall harvest. Pfaffenheim Cuvee Rabelais Pinot Gris 2011 ($19.95, LCBO #999342) hails from the former German region, now French region of Alsace, known for its top-quality, food-friendly whites. Not so long ago, Alsace table wines were always bone-dry, but that has been changing. This one is off-dry with spice and floral notes, and a powerful punch on the palate. Available at Vintages Saturday.

Toast Ottawa's annual celebration of organic food with an organic wine from Italy — San Michele A Torri Chianti Colli Fiorentini 2010 ($15.95, LCBO #900258).

The Classico region is the original and best area for the production of Chianti, but the Chianti appellation actually has six sub-appellations of varying quality.

Colli Fiorentini borders Classico and maintains lower yields than most of the other sub-apps, ensuring near-Classico quality in its earthy wines. Available at Vintages Saturday.

Celebrate fall bounty

Feast of Fields. Taste local chef's creations Sunday at Canada Agriculture Museum

SAMANTHA EVERTS
For Metro

Ottawans get out your farm-worthy Wellies because Feast of Fields is back.

The Canadian Organic Growers' fundraiser is a culinary challenge that takes top chefs outside straight to the local source. Instead of getting one high-dining meal, you are getting many from the best area restaurants.

More than 20 farmers and local meat and cheese producers get paired with chefs to create a completely seasonal dish using farm designated products. Restaurants like Alium, Domus Café, and Black Cat Bistro will return to participate. Producer participants include Funny Duck, Bryson Farms, and Jasper Apple Farm.

Dining tables under shaded tents and bales of hay by a small outdoor stage means that people can dine family style and find out what their neighbours are enjoying. Silver spoon dining aside, it's normal to check out someone else's plate in line and ask where they got it and their thoughts on the plate.

Past dishes have ranged from slider burgers, soups, pizzas, and the most garlicky potato dish imaginable.

Feast of Fields includes admission to a farm so you can really see, "from farm to table." A cool thing about the event is that you can buy the products directly from the farmers that the established chefs have used, then learn what inspired their dishes and how you can use those products at home.

Feast of Fields gave out branded cotton canvas bags last year for visitors to tote back those ingredients — trust us, you will need one to bring back the harvest bounty.

Feast of Fields will be held Sunday at the Canada Agriculture Museum from noon to 4 p.m. For more, visit cog.ca/ottawa/feast_of_fields.

Restaurant. Enjoy ambience at the Buddha by Roses Café

SAMANTHA EVERTS
For Metro

Ever had a dinner date get dull? At Buddha by Roses Café, if your date gets boring you can easily count the Buddha statues, even lamps, in the gorgeously decorated interior.

Outside, the patio was buzzing with chickly dressed people having cocktails to bumping exotic music when we arrived. A swanky lounge with beautiful draped silks with dark couches looked great for mingling.

Starting with vegetable pakoras, thinly sliced fried onions were served as one awkward pile lacking flavour instead of the traditional bhaji. It was served with a hot green chili sauce and cool coconut dip. Unfortunately, our server dropped them on the ground, prompting us to change seats the first time.

A "Gandhi" platter was selected (with three entrée options) to try many of the enticing dishes. Our server acted as if it was a burden for her to go check with the chef to find out what sort of curries were included. Those were inflexible so we opted for three main dishes: Butter chicken, cauliflower in yogurt with saffron, and a spinach and cottage cheese dish with cashews.

Our butter chicken was fine, but the sauce tasted tinned over homemade and wasn't very hot when it arrived. A side basket of naan was more akin to Greek pitas over the traditional buttery, thick flatbread. The cauliflower dish was lovely and similar to Gobi Aloo, but richer in creaminess. We noticed each dish had the same soft texture. For Indian served in a beautiful setting, the food was surprisingly unmemorable and bland.

Griffin III's historic 1st week continues

Robert Griffin III is the first rookie quarterback to win an offensive player of the week award after his debut game.

The NFL announced Wednesday that Griffin is the NFC offensive player of the week for his performance in the Washington Redskins' 40-32 win over the New Orleans Saints.

The No. 2 overall draft pick completed 19 of 26 passes for 320 yards with two touchdowns and no interceptions in Sunday's victory — making him the first player in league history to amass 300-plus yards passing, two or more passing touchdowns and no interceptions in an NFL debut. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Knicks' Kidd to fight DWI charge

New York Knicks point guard Jason Kidd intends to fight a charge that he was drunk when he crashed his SUV into a telephone pole in the Hamptons his lawyer said Wednesday.

When asked about the allegations at Kidd's brief procedural appearance at Southampton Town Court on Long Island, lawyer Edward Burke Jr. told reporters, "We are defending that."

Kidd was arrested in July, days after signing with the Knicks. He suffered minor injuries when the vehicle hit the pole and veered into the woods in the hamlet of Water Mill.

The misdeavour charge carries the potential for up to a year in jail.

Offers fly as NHL labour talks resume

Lockout. League tables "time-sensitive" offer, after players' proposal falls flat with Bettman

The final push to get a new NHL collective bargaining agreement is on.

After almost two weeks without face-to-face negotiations, labour talks between the league and NHL Players' Association resumed with a flurry of activity Wednesday.

Both sides tabled a proposal in an attempt to avoid another work stoppage. The current deal is set to expire just before midnight on Saturday and the owners have said they'll enact another lockout if a new agreement isn't reached beforehand.

The NHLPA's initial offer was countered with one by the league that will see the players get 49 per cent of revenue in the first year and scale back to 47 per cent over the course of the six-year deal, according to a source. That's up from a starting point of 46 per cent in the NHL's last offer, but still well down from the 57 per cent players saw last season.

Commissioner Gary Bettman says the league will withdraw its offer if it's not accepted by the time the current labour agreement ends.

"With every day we're experiencing — and will continue to experience — damage to the game and to the business of the game," said Bettman. "What we're trying to do is stem that damage. What we would be prepared to do now to make a deal before there's extensive damage is not the same that we'll be prepared to do in the event we get to a point where we've suffered the damage."

NHLPA executive director Don Fehr said the union's proposal was "consistent" with its previous offer.

Getting together

On Wednesday night, the union opened a meeting with some 300 players in attendance, while the NHL's board of governors is scheduled to convene on Thursday.

- Meanwhile, the union says it has filed an application with Quebec's labour relations board, along with at least 16 players of the Montreal Canadiens, asking it to declare a lockout illegal in the province.

- A hearing on the application is scheduled for Friday morning in Montreal.

share "fall over time" as league revenues grow.

Fehr added he doesn't "know whether this will lead to anything."

Bettman said the union's proposal offered "very little movement if any," which prompted him to draft a counter-proposal with Boston Bruins owner Jeremy Jacobs and Calgary Flames owner Murray Edwards.

"We're certainly on our side anxious to get a deal done as soon as possible, but it takes two sides to negotiate," Bettman said.

Bettman also said that the definition of hockey-related revenues, the pool of revenues which the league and players share under the collective bargaining agreement, would remain unchanged in an effort to simplify the process.

"I assure you, nobody wants to make a deal more than I do," Bettman said.

The sides resumed discussions at the league's Manhattan offices with just over three days left before their collective bargaining agreement expires. It was the first formal session since Aug. 31. THE CANADIAN PRESS

NHL. Bouncing back no easy task if season is lost

Quoted

"We do have some other concerts and events, but there's no mistake that hockey is our business here."

Tim Murphy, the manager of Vancouver's Shark Club located a slapshot away from the home of the Vancouver Canucks, says without NHL hockey the bar just isn't busy enough.

ger pieces of the revenue pie compared with ticket sales, it is the more casual fans that may never attend a game that can make the difference.

"They may notice a decrease in television rights, and they may notice less following on websites, and they may notice a decrease in merchandise sales and less support of sponsors products," he said of teams if the season is killed.

"And as the NHL becomes ... less reliant on gate revenues and more reliant on media and marketing revenues, then those impacts become greater and greater."

Since the 2005 collective bargaining agreement was signed, the NHL has experienced an annual growth rate in revenues of more than six per cent.

But O'Reilly noted that last time the new collective agreement was accompanied by rule changes in an effort to make the game faster and higher scoring and in turn more appealing to the casual fan.

Without that added boost, the league may not bounce back from a season-killing lockout the same way.

"This time around, everything you read about is much more focused on solely the financial issues," O'Reilly said.

Tim Tebow's debut with the New York Jets was a dud, but a sprinkling of the backup QB and the wildcat package was more than enough against the Bills. Now the Jets have to decide whether to give Tebow more snaps or fewer against the Steelers in Week 2.

Horoscopes

Aries

March 21 - April 20

You are confused which direction to take. It's not like you to be so undecided but for now, the only safe decision is to make no decision at all until the early part of next week. What's the rush?

Taurus

April 21 - May 21

Try not to let your anxieties get out of hand today because it could have a knock-on effect on your physical health. Experience should have taught you by now that the worst rarely happens, so strive to be positive.

Gemini

May 22 - June 21

Try not to be sentimental about people or possessions. Gemini is ruled by mind planet Mercury, so you should find it easy enough to be logical. Use your head today. It could save you a lot of unnecessary torment.

Cancer

June 22 - July 23

You may have to deal with someone whose opinions you dislike but chances are you will need their support in the very near future, so hold your tongue and get on with it. It can still be a good working partnership.

Leo

July 24 - Aug. 23

Speak up and let others know what you think. You could, of course, stay quiet and enjoy an easy life. But that has never been your way — nor should it be when there is so much at stake.

Virgo

Aug. 24 - Sept. 23

Certain people seem to be dragging their feet and almost daring you to do something about it. You don't have to put up with this kind of behaviour. If they're going to drag their feet, you've got an excuse to stamp yours.

Libra

Sept. 24 - Oct. 23

A partnership issue will come to a head over the next 24 hours and you will have no option but to deal with it quickly. A clean break now may be preferable to a messy one later on. Give it some thought.

Scorpio

Oct. 24 - Nov. 22

You may be a bit behind in your schedule but there is no need to panic. The planets indicate you will get to catch up next week. In the meantime, relax and focus more on things you enjoy.

Sagittarius

Nov. 23 - Dec. 21

Someone is not giving you enough for your money. Let them know you won't put up with such poor service. If you don't, the situation will continue. Throw off the nice guy image and get angry.

Capricorn

Dec. 22 - Jan. 20

You're in a good mood at the moment but it could be spoiled by someone who seems to believe you owe them a living. You don't owe them anything. In fact, they owe you so don't let them drag you down.

Aquarius

Jan. 21 - Feb. 19

Your sixth sense is telling you that what you are being told by a friend is not to be trusted. Thank them for their advice then do the opposite of what they suggest. It could save you money — and your reputation.

Pisces

Feb. 20 - March 20

You are somewhat impulsive, which could cause problems with money. You should know by now that few things in life truly come for free, so make sure you know what the real cost is going to be.
